PROMISED To Hang the Phone On a Telegraph Pole.

Used a Convenient Hitching Post Instead—Could Not Agree.

Parties who tried to reach Dr. R. B. Carter by telephone Saturday, were informed that instructions had been issued to operators not to ring his phone.

This statement sounded all right but there is a story back of it all. Dr. Carter has been a leader in the agitation for lower rates and better service. Friday an agent of the Central Union Telephone company and Dr. Carter were unable to agree on certain details in reference to his telephone contract.

Dr. Carter, at one time, said that rather than submit to the Central Union company's arrangement he would hang his phone on a telegraph pole and he has made good his promise. Only a hitching post was used instead.

Saturday morning Adolph avenue citizens were astonished to see the instrument swaying in the breeze, tied on the post in front of the doctor's residence. A card was attached, inscribed "Dollars for defense, but not a cent for tribute."

BUSINESS BOOMING

On This Division of the Canal—An Inspection.

Chief Engineer Perkins, of the State Board of Public Works, has returned from an inspecting trip of the canals in Northeastern Ohio, says the Columbus Dispatch. He inspected the canals from Cleveland to the coal fields, and found them in much better condition than was expected.

On that division of the canals he found about 70 boats engaged in the coal, clay and lumber business, and he expressed the opinion that the number would be largely increased if the owners of this property were assured that there was to be any stability of the canal system of the State. When the canals were constructed it was with a view of carrying 40 tons burden, but he found that they were even now carrying as high as 70 tons and that will be increased to 85 tons after the spring work is completed. The winter has been one of the hardest in the history of the canals for they were closed to navigation for a number of months.

DIVORCED From Her Unfaithful Husband Walter T. Carter.

Once Forgiven of His Wrong Doings. He Forgot His Promises.

The escapades of Walter T. Carter, formerly of this city, have again been brought to public notice by the hearing of an action for a divorce, instituted by his excellent wife in the Hamilton county courts.

She was given a decree Thursday, freeing her from the obnoxious union with her erring husband. The Enquirer has the following to say in reference to the affair:

"The manner in which Mrs. Katherine Carter became aware of her husband's duplicity was revealed yesterday in the Divorce Court when Judge Jelke heard her suit for a legal separation from Walter T. Carter. It will be recalled that not long ago a sensation was created by the discovery that Carter, who was in the laundry business, had left the city, and that a woman named May Tighe had evidently gone with him.

A receiver was appointed for his business and steps taken to straighten out his affairs with his creditors. The first wife knew of his intention to leave the city was when his mother, Mrs. Noah Carter, showed her a letter she had received from her son, in which he said he was going to South America. When Mrs. Carter told her story and the other witnesses told theirs yesterday, it was learned how she came to know of his affair with May Tighe. It seems that the woman had had two children, of which Carter was the father. He had called Dr. W. F. Taylor to attend the woman. Afterward a friend of Carter got an intimation of the matter, and, thinking that Dr. W. L. Taylor was the physician, quizzed him about it. The latter, of course, said he was not the doctor, and then, thinking to befriend Carter, told him of what was being said on Price Hill about him. Carter confessed that the stories were true. Fearing that his wife and her family would soon hear of the affair, he confessed the whole matter then.

On his promise to have nothing more to do with the woman he was forgiven. But he did not keep his promise, and the woman would not permit him to throw her aside. Mrs. Carter was married in 1887. She was granted a divorce."
